Equine Insurance Agencies for Liability Insurance

Remember, the state organization with which you affiliate your horse show may also be able to assist you in purchasing economical liability insurance for the show, so don't forget to ask them if your show can fall under their umbrella or purchase a rider with the company they use. This can help your show save money. These are just a few of the many insurance companies who may be able to help you with equine/livestock liability insurance. You may have a local company that can also provide your group with liability insurance. You should carefully review the policies from several companies and the options they are able to provide your group, as well as the quote they would charge for their service in providing you a liability policy before the show committee makes a final decision. Ask your affiliating organizations about the recommended amount of coverage.
